Marshall Says A-Bomb Increases Importance of Ground Soldier

House Slashes Are Direct Outgrowth Of Hostilities' End

Four Billion Cut Is Made in Contract Authority for Same Period; Will Slow Debt

Washington, Oct. 17 (AP)—Development of the atom bomb has increased, rather than decreased, the importance of the soldier who fights on the ground, in the opinion of Gen. George C. Marshall.

The Army chief of staff told the House Appropriations Committee that if some future war finds enemy nations tossing atom bombs at each other, somebody is going to have to move in and stop the enemy firing.

Testifying on an appropriation cancellation bill, made public today, Marshall had this to say about the "effect of the atom bomb on the size of the military establishment."

"I would say that it has increased the necessity for greater immediacy in the availability of a force to be used at the outset of an emergency for the reason that we would have to act quickly in order to terminate a destructive attack of atomic nature."

"If the atom bomb did away with the necessity for an Army, there might be two scientists, one in Germany, we will say, and one in Washington. As each pressed a button, an horrendous explosion would occur in the other fellow's territory. This process would continue, short of a lucky hit on one of the scientists and his button establishment, until somebody got to the source of those buttons; this is a striking force."

"It would appear to be all the more necessary to be capable of aggressive offensive action because of the terrific destruction that would be carried out prior to the elimination of the enemy's power to launch such bombs by plane or rocket or other device."

"People overlook the fact, when they are talking about mechanized or technological warfare, that more men are required than in the past. They are the men required to produce and to supply, and the fighting troops to put the instrument in the proper place for its employment. x x x we had to capture an island from which to launch the atomic bomb."

"U. S. War Effort Supply."

If a war of atom bombs ever gets started, Marshall indicated, the United States intends to have a good supply of the devastators on hand. The two big bomb plants were reported producing "right now" and "building up a reserve."

The General told the committee he believes in maintaining a military position strong enough to impress foreign nations "with the readily available military power of America."

"If they know that we are strong, then they will not dare to take liberties," he said. "On the contrary, if they know that we cannot develop our great potential for many months, then terrible things may happen."

Gen. H. H. Arnold, head of the Army Air Forces, told the committee of the high cost of scrapping surplus B-17 (Flying Fortress) and B-24 (Liberator) planes. Arnold said he believes it would "be the economy in the long run" to take them "out to some place such as one of our stations in the west and have them a big press roll them into a compressed piece of metal, throw that into the furnace, pour it out in pigs and stack the pigs up. Then you have something that is an asset instead of a liability."

Committee members said it cost $3,600 to tear down a Liberator for salvage, but the highest bids received for the different parts were $2,100.

Justice Schirick Orders Names Put On Election Ballot

Kelly and Schuler Will Be Listed as Candidates for Coroner Post on Tickets

Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick, this noon notified the Ulster County Board of Elections that the names of both candidates for coroner—Ernest A. Kelly, Republican, and Raymond Schuler, Democrat—could be placed on the ballot for submission to the voters at the general election November 6.

It is understood that N. LeVan Haver, representing Mr. Kelly, and Attorney Arthur B. Ewig, appearing for Mr. Schuler, appeared before Justice Schirick in chambers at the court house this afternoon, and submitted arguments in the matter.

Justice Schirick's opinion, had not been received at the time of going to press. Presumably the election board will make a statement in the matter.

Snyder Believes Industries Able To Grant Boosts

Lower Production Costs and Proposed Cut in Taxes Will Enable Such Increases

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 17 (AP)—Reconversion Director John W. Snyder said today that because of decreased production costs "many industries should be able to grant wage increases that will not in turn mean price increases."

But he added a "sizeable number" of others would have high production costs for some months yet.

In an address prepared for an annual meeting and reconversion conference of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association, Snyder said the industries which ought to be able to grant wage increases were those now in production and basing their prices "on the old cost of labor under the overtime conditions" which were done away with when the war ended.

"The proposed reduction of the wartime excess profits tax, which took up to 53 per cent of the higher wartime profits, will also assist industry to raise wages where necessary without raising prices," he asserted.

He added, however, that for a "sizeable number of businesses" Continued on Page Two

Navy Marks Down Scores For Majority of Personnel

Washington, Oct. 17 (AP)—The Navy has marked down discharge scores for most of its personnel, with a goal of releasing more than 1,000,000 officers and men by New Year's. Previously the service had expected to send home only about 800,000 by Christmas.

Announcing cuts effective November 1 for all but a few classifications, the Navy last night also announced further reductions in point scores in December and January. The formula by which the scores are computed was left unchanged.

For most enlisted men the point score total was cut from 41 to 41. Further reductions to 39 on December 1 and to 38 on January 1 were promised.

Hoover Says Crime Wave May Come

House Committee Does Not Fail to Slash F.B.I. Funds by 2 Millions

Asked for Help

F.B.I. Head Would Have Kept 8,223 Employees

Washington, Oct. 17 (AP)—F.B.I. Director J. Edgar Hoover fears America may be in for a "rather serious crime wave."

But the House Appropriations Committee to which the G-Man chief expressed his concern declined to rescind a contemplated slash of $2,480,000 in F.B.I. funds for the current fiscal year.

Predicting an increase in kidnapping, bank robbery and extortion, Hoover pleaded with the committee not to reduce the wartime strength of his agency too fast.

The Budget Bureau had recommended that F.B.I. funds be cut from $35,829,000 to $33,349,000, thus reducing personnel from 10,872 to 6,000. Hoover asked to be allowed to keep 8,223 employees, but the committee went along with the Budget Bureau's findings.

It made public Hoover's testimony today, in which he reported an 8.4 per cent increase in crime in the first half of this year and asserted:

"I feel that we are approaching what may become a rather serious crime wave unless law enforcement is prepared with trained personnel and adequate facilities to cope with it. As we go into the post-war era, I think we will have an increase in kidnapping and bank robbery. I think there will be an increase in extortion and other crimes which are already reflected in the crime trends of the country."

Hoover said, however, he does not share the view that the returning veteran will become a crime problem.

The most dangerous crime element, he declared, is the juvenile delinquent. "He is a blighted child," he said, "and he needs the help of his parents and the community."

"The largest number of arrests in any age group represents youngsters 17 years of age. These youngsters engage in the major types of crimes. The girls are the mothers of our next generation. I do not look upon this situation simply as a juvenile delinquency problem; I think it is more properly described as adult delinquency, the failure of the men and father to properly establish a home and take care of their children."

Children Are Found

Jersey City, N. J., Oct. 17 (AP)—Two children, aspen in their father's automobile when it was stolen early today, were found safe by police an hour later abandoned in another parked car after an extensive dragnet had been thrown about the city. The children were three-year-old Edward Winkler Jr. and his sister, Clara Louise, six. Police said they located the stolen car in the downtown section and arrested a youth who said that, when he found the sleeping children in the automobile, he placed them in another automobile he found parked several blocks away.

President Will Give Training Message

Washington, Oct. 17 (AP)—President Truman will appear before Congress next Tuesday to deliver a message on peace-time universal training.

The President will address a joint session at 12:30 p. m. (E.S.T.). Speaker Rayburn told reporters after a White House conference on the administration's legislative program.

Mr. Truman has indicated his support for military training along the lines advocated by General George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff.

Announcement of the President's plan came as Secretary of War Patterson advocated merger of the War and Navy Departments as a step toward maintaining world peace.

Berlin, Oct. 17 (AP)—The Nazi party's master file of personnel records, including membership cards bearing nearly 8,000,000 names has fallen intact into American hands.

Americans Find Fortunes In Gems, Metals in Japan

Tokyo, Oct. 17 (AP)—American researchers have found fortunes in diamonds, platinum, gold and silver which Japanese admirals and generals had cached in secluded areas—but never were able to remove from the country because the war ended so abruptly.

General MacArthur's Headquarters disclosed today that one party discovered "a fabulous fortune in diamonds" in a chicken coop atop a mountain 150 miles north of Tokyo.

In another instance, a package resembling a packet of hamburger yielded 8,000 karats of diamonds.

No estimates of the value of the loot have been made.

Eleven crates of platinum were discovered beside the chicken coop. Two Japanese admirals' aides guarded Americans to the cache.

Some Members Think Truman Will Not Go Far From Present Policy

Hearings Listed

Smith-Connally Act Will Be Subject of Action

Washington, Oct. 17 (AP)—The War Labor Board stops issuing orders next Monday, but some members believe President Truman shortly will adopt their idea for a new commission to revise the wage-price policy.

In other quarters there were hints today that any new policy will not stray far from the present hold-the-line formula.

This opinion was based in part on an anti-inflation speech delivered in Boston yesterday by Reconstruction Director John W. Snyder.

As the United Mine Workers' strike continued to spread paralysis through the soft coal fields, these other developments occurred in Washington:

A spokesman for the bituminous operators said they were "almost together" on a new proposal which might permit the reopening of conciliation efforts conducted by Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach.

Schwellenbach ended the meetings Monday night, after the operators rejected the last of five peace proposals advanced in eight days of conciliation. Since then the operators have conferred among themselves. There were indications they were aiming at a noon deadline for a new proposal.

This raised anew the possibility of a walkout of all 400,000 U.M.W. members—half of whom are already off the job. Some days ago Lewis threatened "action" if the operators refused to negotiate the demand.

There were vocal demands from Senators for anti-strike legislation, with Senator Reed (R-Kans.) asserting in an interview that unions should be held by law to "the proper degree of responsibility."

Could Work Out Problems

But other Senators said management and labor could work out their problems. Among these was Senator Murray (D-Mont.), who said disputes must be settled by a "give and take spirit" on both sides.

The House Military Committee scheduled hearings today on repeal of the Smith-Connally Act, the law that permits unions to petition for strike votes after a 30-day "cooling-off" period.

Critics of the act charge that it fosters strikes by giving implied government approval if unions vote to walk out.

The question whether the government should revise its wage-price policy to head off strikes resulting from pay demands remained one of the capitol's hottest issues.

The W.L.B. came close to bowing out of that picture completely, however, by announcing last night that after October 22 it would limit its future decisions to mere recommendations, instead of orders, except on appeals cases and pending cases in which disputants have agreed voluntarily to accept the board's decision as binding.

Accept new voluntary cases only with the understanding that W.L.B. will simply designate arbitrators; the board itself will not make the decisions.

Lloyd K. Garrison, new W.L.B. chairman, said this narrowing of board activities should permit it to concentrate on old cases and to close shop by mid-December.

Will Figure in Decision

W.L.B. will figure in the wage-price decision, he told a news conference, only if a general policy has not been settled by the time W.L.B. gets around to handling certain cases involving wage demands based on "inequities."

Only in such cases does the government need permit wage boosts that would cause a price increase. The question of what constitutes an inequity—and how high prices may go to correct them—thus is the heart of the wage-price question.

"If no determination is made by the time these cases come up, Continued on Page Fourteen

Hoover Says Crime Wave May Come

House Committee Does Not Fail to Slash F.B.I. Funds by 2 Millions

F.B.I. Head Would Have Kept 8,223 Employees

Washington, Oct. 17 (AP)—F.B.I. Director J. Edgar Hoover fears America may be in for a "rather serious crime wave."

But the House Appropriations Committee to which the G-Man chief expressed his concern declined to rescind a contemplated slash of $2,480,000 in F.B.I. funds for the current fiscal year.

Predicting an increase in kidnapping, bank robbery and extortion, Hoover pleaded with the committee not to reduce the wartime strength of his agency too fast.

The Budget Bureau had recommended that F.B.I. funds be cut from $35,829,000 to $33,349,000, thus reducing personnel from 12,572 to 6,000. Hoover asked to be allowed to keep 8,223 employees, but the committee went along with the Budget Bureau's findings.

President Will Give Training Message

Washington, Oct. 17 (AP)—President Truman will appear before Congress next Tuesday to deliver a message on peacetime universal training.

The President will address a joint session at 12:30 p. m. (E.S.T.), Speaker Rayburn told reporters after a White House conference on the administration's legislative program.

Mr. Truman has indicated his support for military training along the lines advocated by General George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff.

Announcement of the President's plan came as Secretary of War Patterson advocated merger of the War and Navy Departments as a step toward maintaining world peace.

Burton Gets Prison Term on Charge Of 2nd Degree Rape

Allen Walter Burton, alias Armstrong of Kingston, was sentenced to an indeterminate term of from five to 10 years in Clinton State Prison at Dannemora this morning in county court on his plea of guilty to a charge of rape, second degree. Burton was sentenced as a second offender, admitting that he was the same man who in June, 1935, was sentenced to Elmira Reformatory for robbery and grand larceny, second degree.

Joseph Avis, who appeared for Burton, stated that he understood that Burton was only 16 or 17 years old at the time and had not been assigned counsel at that time but had pleaded. Burton admitted he was the same person convicted in 1935 and Judge Cashin spoke of the good reputation of Burton's family but stated that under the law a five year term was mandatory in the case of a second offender.

Gerald Rollin Jefferson of Woodstock, charged with the same crime as Burton, was also represented by Joseph Avis, Assistant District Attorney Vincent G. Connelly moved sentence also in the Jefferson case, which involves a 14-year-old girl. Jefferson had previously convicted of a misdemeanor. Judge Cashin said the type of crime which Jefferson and Burton stood charged with was one which could not be condoned.

Children of the age involved in the present case must be protected. Judge Cashin also said that Jefferson had desecrated the home of his employer who had always been good to him. Since the defendant had sufficient intelligence to know the nature of his crime, Judge Cashin said he could not expect much consideration from the court. A sentence of from 12 (Continued on Page Two)

Cards Bearing 8 Million Names Considered One of Big Catches

Berlin, Oct. 17 (AP)—The Nazi party's master file of personnel records, including membership cards bearing nearly 8,000,000 names has fallen intact into American hands.

The prize is considered one of the most important documentary catches of the war. In addition to the membership cards the file contains approximately 2,000,000 names of persons who applied for party membership but were rejected.

Among the membership cards are those belonging to the Ausland (Continued on Page Thirteen)

Americans Find Fortunes In Gems, Metals in Japan

Tokyo, Oct. 17 (AP)—American searchers have found fortunes in diamonds, platinum, gold and silver which Japanese admirals and generals had cached in secluded areas—but never were able to remove from the country because the war ended so abruptly.

General MacArthur's Headquarters disclosed today that one party discovered "a fabulous fortune in diamonds" in a chicken coop atop a mountain 180 miles north of Tokyo. In another instance, a package resembling a packet of hamburger yielded 8,000 karats of diamonds.

No estimates of the value of the loot have been made. Eleven crates of platinum were discovered beside the chicken coop. Two Japanese admirals added guided Americans to the cache.

"The trip up the mountain in a pouring rain with these Japanese was one of the most fantastic (Continued on Page Thirteen)

Some Members Think Truman Will Not Go Far From Present Policy

Hearings Listed
Smith-Connally Act Will Be Subject of Action

Washington, Oct. 17 (AP)—The War Labor Board stops issuing orders next Monday, but some members believe President Truman shortly will adopt their idea for a new commission to revise the wage-price policy.

In other quarters there were hints today that any new policy will not stray far from the present hold-the-line formula.

This opinion was based in part on an anti-inflation speech delivered in Boston yesterday by Reconstruction Director John W. Snyder. As the United Mine Workers' strike continued to spread paralysis through the soft coal fields, these other developments occurred in Washington:

A spokesman for the bituminous operators said they were "almost together" on a new proposal which might permit the reopening of conciliation efforts conducted by Secretary of Labor Schwelbennach. Schwelbennach ended the meetings Monday night, after the operators rejected the last of five peace proposals advanced in eight days of conciliation. Since then the operators have conferred among themselves. There were indications they were aiming at a noon deadline for a new proposal.

U.M.W. President John L. Lewis considered calling the union's 250-man policy committee to Washington to confer on strategy on the dispute, which revolves around a demand for recognition of the U.M.W. foreman's union.

This raised anew the possibility of a walkout of all 400,000 U.M.W. members—half of whom are already off the job. Some days ago Lewis threatened "action" if the operators refused to negotiate the demand.

There were vocal demands from Senators for anti-strike legislation, with Senator Reed (R-Kans.) asserting in an interview that unions should be held by law to "the proper degree of responsibility."

Could Work Out Problems
But other Senators said management and labor could work out their problems. Among these was Senator Murray (D-Mont.) who said disputes must be settled by a "give and take spirit" on both sides.

The House Military Committee scheduled hearings today on repeal of the Smith-Connally Act, the law that permits unions to petition for strike votes after a 30-day "cooling-off" period.

Critics of the act charge that it fosters strikes by giving implied government approval if unions vote to walk out.

The question whether the government should revise its wage-price policy to head off strikes resulting from pay demands remained one of the capitol's hottest issues.

The W.L.B. came close to bowing out of that picture completely, however, by announcing last night that after October 22 it would: Limit its future decisions to mere recommendations, instead of orders, except on appeals cases and pending cases in which disputants have agreed voluntarily to accept the board's decision as binding.

Accept new voluntary cases only with the understanding that W.L.B. will simply designate arbitrators; the board itself will not make the decisions.

Dock Workers' Situation Is Improved, Ryan Says

Strikes-at-Glance

(By The Associated Press)

Nation's strike lines again expand as number of idle over labor disputes jumps to 450,000.

Major strike developments: COAL—Widespread strikes in soft coal field in six states cripples production in more than 1,000 mines, remains country's most critical postwar labor dispute; stalemate in conciliation conference; loss estimated at millions of dollars daily; other industries hit, new layoffs add to 216,000 idle miners, mass firings in steel mills indicated; operators hint new proposal, possibility of reopening of conciliation; John L. Lewis considers calling union policy committee to confer on strategy.

STEEL—Production in steel mills drops sharply as additional furnaces shut down because of fuel shortage; estimate loss of 300,000 tons of steel ingots this week by enforced shutdowns; two of world's largest mills face operating at 25 per cent of capacity by Friday, 30,000 may be furthered.

SHIPPING—Dissonance with A.F.L. Longshoremen's Union keeps large part of New York harbor idle with hundreds of ships tied up in 17-day old strike; insurgent stevedores demanding ousting of union President Ryan as his faction blames C.I.O. Leader Harry Bridges and C.I.O. Maritime Union for split in ranks.

LUMBER—Lumber operators and representatives of 40,000 C.I.O. workers continue negotiations in efforts to settle wage demands; no indications of ending near-month long strike of some 61,000 A.F.L. lumber workers in five Pacific northwest states.

MOTION PICTURES—New technique in strike procedure—sit-down picketing—by movie workers in Hollywood's prolonged A.F.L. jurisdictional dispute; union leaders and film producers continue efforts to end walkout.

Yonkers Man Dies

Rhinebeck, N. Y., Oct. 17 (AP)—Preston Lockain, 42, of 125 Riverdale avenue, Yonkers, N. Y., died today in the Northern Dutchess Health Center, Rhinebeck. Lockain was wounded yesterday when the gun of one of his hunting companions was discharged accidentally, striking him in the left side.

Cigars Will Be Exempt

Washington, Oct. 17 (AP)—Cigars imported after October 22 will be exempt from price control. Announcing this today, O.P.A. said it took the step because imported cigars do not enter significantly into the cost of living.

generally turned to the recovery side in today's market when it was learned John L. Lewis had called off the soft coal strike which had been one of the principal threats to reconversion.

While minus signs were well distributed near the fourth hour, advances were in the majority.

Among the first pivots to receive were U. S. Steel and Bethlehem which touched peaks for 1945. Others in the "new high" class included Youngstown Sheet, Curllis-Wright "A" Electric Power & Light, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber and Schenley. Propped also were Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Montgomery Ward, American Water Works, Standard Oil (N.J.) and J. I. Case.

Bonds were steady and commodities were uneven.

PortEwenites Show Interest in Move To Better Schools

About 300 Persons Attend Meeting; Plan Is to Be Submitted to Voters

That there is no lack of interest on the part of the people of Port Ewen in the proposition to improve the school facilities of District No. 13, either by enlarging the present school building, or by the establishment of a centralized school, was shown by the attendance at the meeting held at the schoolhouse Tuesday night for thorough discussion of the matter.

The meeting was under the direction of the committee previously formed, headed by Mrs. Frances Pallen, who presided as chairman. Attendance was estimated at around 300, filling the assembly hall on the upper floor and the two first floor rooms, a public address system permitting speakers to be heard by all.

The present committee was continued and was directed to get in touch with trustees of school districts in the town of Esopus and prepare a plan of recommended action for submission to the voters of the Port Ewen district.

Attorney Roger H. Loughran of Hurley, who was sole trustee of the Hurley school district at the time plans were inaugurated for a new school building there, was introduced and reviewed the history of that activity and some of the difficulties encountered. He spoke of the advantages to a community in having modern school facilities and the part they played in inducing people to move to the district.

He advised the Port Ewen committee to take full advantage of the facilities and specialists of the State Department of Education.

Francis E. Griffin, chief of the Rural Administrative Service of the State Department of Education, discussed the education law as it related to the establishment of a central school system, in case the Port Ewen people decided to centralize.

A very interesting panel discussion was conducted by Edward Johnson, president of the Port Ewen school board. Taking part in the discussion were Miss Clara M. Marciano, supervising nurse and Vincent Iadavala, assistant sanitary engineer, from the district office of the State Department of Health in Kingston; Supreme Court Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth; John T. Groves, supervisor of the town of Esopus; the Rev. George Berens of Port Ewen and Ralph Johnson, district superintendent of schools for the second district of Ulster county.

Superintendent Johnson urged the people to take some action in the matter of improving their school facilities, something he said, that had been talked about for 26 years—but nothing had been done about it.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

The Hard Way
Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 17 (AP)—It required three parcel post packages and $8.86 mailing charges to do it, but a Kansas City motorcycle enthusiast in the Army in Germany finally got his German-made motor home.

The third package, containing the single cylinder, cylinder head and other parts, was received yesterday from T/S Irvin Hammonds by his former employer, Earl Harding. Harding has assembled the motor and is keeping it for Hammonds who has received the Purple Heart and Bronze Star for action with an armored outfit.

Schoolhouse Home
St. Peter, Minn., Oct. 17 (AP)—Jim Sipes, St. Peter High School football coach, has many complaints about his temporary home, but he's never late for work.

Sipes, his wife and four children are living in an unused classroom of the school as an emergency measure until a home for him is completed.

The family moved into the classroom after Mrs. Sipes and the children complained that their first-assigned quarters—the stage of the school auditorium—was too cold and drafty.

Hayride Shenanigans
Ellensburg, Wash., Oct. 17 (AP)—With the girls outnumbering the boys 14 to one, Central Washington College is going to try out a "date raffle" to obtain a fair distribution of the male escorts for a Saturday hayride.

Girls will draw lots for the 30 eligible dates and to prevent a scramble among the winners, all the boys will be concealed behind a curtain and each winner will pull her prize into view by tugging on a string.

Will Establish Library
New York, Oct. 16 (AP)—A library covering all phases of journalistic and publishing functions of newspapers will be established by the American Newspaper Publishers' association. W. G. Chandler, president, announced today. Sufficient funds will be set aside, he said, "to acquire proper current materials and references, and eventually, under a trained librarian and staff, to efficiently operate this educational center" in the A.N.P.A. offices here, for the use of editors, publishers, students, writers and others. Chandler asked members to send any volumes, manuscripts and historical documents available, and said any cash contributions, bequests or grants will be held in a separate fund for purchasing material for the library.

Salary Boost Is Sought
Albany, N. Y., Oct. 16 (AP)—The New York State Civil Service Employees Association is seeking a 30 per cent salary increase for state workers. The proposal is embodied in a resolution to be voted on at a session tonight of the group's 35th anniversary meeting. "It's only fair," commented W. F. McDonough, executive representative of the association. "That's what every group in private business is after."

DRIVERS FACE TEST
Motor car drivers in Erie thus far have escaped the necessity for tests of driving ability, sight and hearing, but the Government in Dublin has decided the time has come to adopt more stringent supervision. Acting on suggestions by the "Safety First" Association of Ireland, the Government is planning to have every county install a miniature road system for testing drivers. A single government authority to deal with road construction and safety on the roads is suggested.

Oklahoma Dentist Says Toothpicks Wonderful

Oklahoma City, Oct. 17 (AP)—The toothpick, long a splinter in social etiquette, now can be fondled without getting that down in the mouth feeling.

That is the opinion of Dr. Edward L. Ball, Cincinnati, Ohio presented in an address at the Oklahoma Dental Society convention here.

Toothpick ticklers are few in this country because the practice is frowned upon but in Europe and South America, Ball pointed out, the instrument comes into its own at the finest of parties.

No table setting is complete without this aid to dental hygiene, which is used discreetly, he said. "If everybody who went into the Army had learned to use a toothpick when he couldn't use a toothbrush we wouldn't have so many cases of trench mouth and gingiv-itis (inflammation of the gums)," Dr. Ball said.

"We know that patients who use toothpicks regularly have clean mouths," Dr. Ball continued.

CYCLES NOT SENT

A Melbourne firm claims it ordered from America, through government channels during war-time, one electric motor to be 5 horsepower, single phase, 400 volt and 50 cycles. The Australian company eventually got word that the motor had been shipped, but not the 50 cycles, because cycles were made in Australia and could not be imported.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, OCTOBER 17, 1945

THE REPUBLICAN TICKET

The drop of 162 in registration in the City of Kingston this year from the registration of the 1943 mayoralty year should be a signal for a drive to get out the vote.

It does no good to have an opinion on public affairs if the holder of the opinion does not do something about it when he or she has the opportunity.

This year the Ulster County Republican Central Committee has chosen an exceptionally strong slate for both the city and county offices, and the electorate will make no mistake by voting straight across Row A on the voting machines.

For the office of county clerk, Robert A. Snyder of Saugerties was the unanimous choice of the party to succeed himself. Capable, efficient and courteous, he has made a record which will insure his return to office with a handsome majority.

The very important office of district attorney has been in the capable hands of N. LeVan Haver, who stands four square on his record. Protecting the rights of the citizens of the county and prosecuting those who transgress the law, the district attorney must be fully qualified. LeVan Haver has the qualifications.

Ernest A. Kelly, candidate for coronor, is eminently qualified. He is a widely known undertaker and resides in Kingston.

In the City of Kingston the voters will elect a mayor, alderman-at-large and a judge of the city court.

Abram Molyneux, former sheriff of Ulster county, has been chosen for the office of mayor. As sheriff of Ulster he made a fine record and he can be depended upon to make a fine mayor. He is qualified and courageous as well as progressive.

John J. Schwenck is the candidate for re-election to the office of alderman-at-large. Long in experience in the government of the city, he continues the same devotion to public matters that characterized his first day in office. His return to office as the presiding officer of the Common Council is a foregone conclusion.

Matthew V. Cahill, the candidate for city judge, also stands on his record. Conscientious and with the welfare of the entire public at heart, he will receive the enthusiastic support of the voters.

Vote for sound government by pulling down all the levers in Row A all the way.

We Americans seem to have a habit of liking our enemies and then not knowing what to do with them afterwards.

OUR ANNUAL BONFIRE

Even in normal times, uncontrolled fire takes a heavy toll of our human and physical resources. During the war, fire menaced the security of our armed forces. In peace it menaces the security of the worker. Individual responsibility and the united effort of all fire fighting agencies are necessary to control this ever present danger.

There have already been many disastrous postwar fires in industrial plants. Everyone is concerned with this because fires deprive workers of jobs, and the primary objective of the American people in days ahead will be employment and production.

The record of vital statistics shows that on an average, 10,000 persons lose their lives each year in fires. And many times that number suffer incapacitating or painful burns and injuries. Seven thousand of these deaths occur in homes where more than 400,000 fires were reported last year. The victims of these home fires are largely women and children.

During the last 12 months, America burned $444,225,000 worth of property—the highest fire loss in 12 years. This huge accumulation of buildings and goods was wasted at a time when the world is crying for all kinds of food, clothing, building materials and commodities of every kind. While striving to conserve resources to produce and supply the products for our own as well as other nations, our annual bonfire con-

THE RED HERRING

The mayoralty campaign in New York is dull because the city is corrupt and contented. People have money. The night clubs are crowded to their smoky gills. Hotels are jammed to the rafters. Such prices are paid for steaks until, I should imagine, a cow is worth its weight in platinum. In this atmosphere, Frank Costello, who made a fortune in slot machines, is the political boss of the Democratic party in Manhattan and Joe Adonis in Brooklyn. And few seem to care. It was a tough job to get the voters to register and, in spite of increased population, the registration fell short.

In fact, it is in this atmosphere that a municipal election is held for 7,000,000 Americans in which the gangsters and racketeers and Communists have formed an alliance for the control of the city. I asked a lawyer for the Democratic candidate why he would vote for the Democratic ticket. He always voted the Democratic ticket. Yet, when he does not vote, this lawyer is an upright citizen who concerns himself with moral and ethical problems. He is not indignant that his party has fallen into the hands of Costello, Adonis and the Communists. He is only indignant when workers strike.

And another peculiarity of this election is the fact that the Republican party gives evidence of a lack of consistency and discipline. The party's choice for mayor is Judge Jonah Goldstein. Newbold Morris, currently president of the council in the LaGuardia administration, who calls himself a Willie Republican, is splitting his party by running on a third ticket. Morris wanted the Republican nomination and failed to get it. So he is running a split ticket with the object of punishing his party for failing to nominate him. His excuse is that Goldstein was a member of Tammany Hall, so was Wendell Willkie. Besides, in New York, municipal elections are supposed to bring about a fusion of all decent citizens against the crooks, racketeers and, nowadays, the Communists.

Among the Republicans there are some who will not vote for Goldstein because he did not change his name early in life. There is a lot of name-changing in this city, the object being to disguise race, religion and even a previous career. Goldstein's failure to avail himself of this will, undoubtedly cost him some votes, although it is difficult to understand why it should be assumed that a man's character is improved if his name is disguised.

On the other hand, Morris may get some votes from those who, while refusing to vote for O'Dwyer, the American Labor Party candidate, also decline to vote for a man named Goldstein. In a word, Newbold Morris may get not only the split vote but the promised vote. He will not be elected but he is having a lot of fun.

The significance of all this lies in the utter lack of municipal issues. Nobody is discussing the fact that for more than a decade the New York police force has been undermined and that there are areas in New York, where decent citizens dare not go at night, or that traffic has been handled so badly that it is, in many parts of the city, quicker to walk than to ride; or that the school system is a cross-croas of divergent subversions, many teachers devoting themselves to private ideologies rather than to the Three R's. Nor do any of the candidates discuss the plethora of strikes here and the fact that before the war industries were running away from New York because of unfortunate labor conditions here. Nor do the candidates discuss overpayment of real estate and the high cost of running the city. Nor do they labor the fact that neighborliness has disappeared before the un-American habit of current politicians not only to stimulate class but race and color consciousness in their own interest.

The argument has come down to race, religion, prior party affiliations and spite. It is natural that the Communists and racketeers should step into such a situation and it is not startling that the Tammany politicians should have made their connections on the general assumption that public anarchy will serve their purposes.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.) CIRRHOSIS OF LIVER

As students we were taught that chronic inflammation of the liver (sclerosis, cirrhosis, hob nail liver) was caused by the overuse of alcohol, that these patients drank too much hard liquor and too much rich food. This puzzled me and many other students because we knew of cases where alcohol could not possibly be the cause.

In Medical Clinics of North America Drs. Norman Jolliffe and Elmer Alpert, New York city, state that cirrhosis of the liver has been produced experimentally by dietary means; that it is not alcohol and rich foods, but lack of certain food elements in the food eaten that is the cause. It is the "habits" of the individual who drinks too much alcohol rather than the alcohol itself that does the damage to the liver cells. Alcoholic patients with cirrhosis of liver often have been on deficient diets for long periods of time especially lack of vitamin B complex and vitamin C. It has also been found that proteins—meat and eggs—though perhaps eaten in sufficient quantities did not supply the needs of proteins of the body.

Another point is that infections and other conditions in the body produce substances which upset or interfere with the working of the liver cells. By increasing the vitamins B and K the liver cells are protected from these substances and cirrhosis does not or cannot occur.

A series of 54 patients with cirrhosis of the liver were given a diet rich in proteins, starches, fats, milk, fruit and green vegetables, to which was added brewer's yeast. In addition vitamin B1 was injected daily and liver extract twice weekly. At end of six months 72 per cent of these treated cases were alive as compared with 57 per cent of a similar number not given this treatment. At the end of two years 45 per cent of the treated cases was alive as compared with only 22 per cent who did not receive this diet treatment.

One of the symptoms of cirrhosis of the liver, which is often long drawn out, is lack of appetite. The use of vitamin B1 to increase appetite, and an increased amount of protein or "nitrogen" food in a predigested form (scrambled hydrolyzate), together with brewer's yeast by mouth to build up the body structures give excellent results in this disease.

'At Century's Turn'

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

The "Over the Top" minstrel show was presented by Kingston Post of the American Legion, in the old Kingston Opera House on February 9 and 10, 1920. It was the first annual minstrel show of the local Legion Post, and proved a great success.

Thomas F. Coughlin was inter-locutor, while the endmen were Tommy Dolan, Bill Newkirk, Peter Jordan, Jack Rives, Harry E. Giles, Peter McCutcheon, Thomas Murray, and John Palsi.

The soloists, in addition to the endmen, were Samuel Affron, William J. Radell, Marie McCarthy, James R. Palen, and L. C. Elmerdorf.

The members of the chorus were Francis I. Elston, J. Harold Cunningham, Matthew E. Deegan, Thomas Edwards, William Jordan, Edward J. Perry, Samuel Basch, James Doyle, Philip H. Ryan and Charles Styles.

Shurtz's orchestra, under the leadership of Harry G. Malsenholder, furnished the music. In the olio appeared Ralph Mann in a balancing stunt; the Dixie Trio, Messrs. James Fitzgerald, Clyde Roosa and Percy Brodhead; and the presentation of a one-act burlesque "Yankee Doodle" with Bill Newkirk, Edward J. Perry, Thomas J. Murray, John Palsi, Kathryn Harmon, Marie Clifton, Kathryn Harmon, Marie Clifton, Anna Adron and Catherine Matthews in the cast.

Thomas A. Bridges of Washington, Pa., assumed his duties on February 9, 1920, as boy's work secretary of the local Y.M.C.A.

Turning back the pages of the city's history to January 17, 1910, former Mayor Morris Block that day opened a wash dress factory in the old Odd Fellows' building on East Strand. This building many years later was badly damaged by fire, and then it was rebuilt, the upper floor that housed the Odd Fellows' lodge rooms was built.

O. R. Thomson on January 17, 1910, bought the TeBow building on upper Clinton avenue, and converted it into a laundry, which is now owned and operated by Senator Arthur H. Hicks. The TeBow grocery store in the years at the turn of the century was one of the best known grocery stores in the upper section of the city. Edward TeBow who conducted it, was the father of G. Burton TeBow for years superintendent of the old trolley road, before he retired from active duties some years ago.

Orlando V. Wood died on January 16, 1920, in his home, 332 Broadway. He was widely known as a soft drink manufacturer, and his bottling works for years stood on the corner of Broadway and East Chester street.

Several years ago the old works were torn down, and the site is now occupied by C's Diner. The bottling works were removed to the rear of the property where the business is carried on by Theodore C. Wood, who has been conducting it since the death of his father.

The bottling works were established many years ago by Abram Wood, the grandfather of Theodore Wood.

E. L. Chase of Cohoes was named manager of the Ulster County Farm Bureau in January, 1920. He succeeded Charles F. Cochran, who had resigned.

Harmon H. Goodrich, brick mould manufacturer, died on February 2, 1920, in his home on Grove street. He was the first man in the Hudson river valley to establish a factory to manufacture brick moulds. For years the factory was located at 289 East Union street, in Poughkeepsie.

Atomic Bomb Talk as Regards Soviet Relations Does Prove Why Unilateral Policy Has Been Russia's

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 17.—Perhaps the most curious phase of present-day suggestions as to policy in respect to other nations is the insistent demand coming from various quarters that the United States should immediately give up the secret of the atomic bomb to all nations irrespective of whether their diplomatic relations with this country are satisfactory.

No fact stands out more prominently than the lack of understanding between the United States and Russia. Although this relationship has been unsatisfactory during the war and was equally unsatisfactory in Potsdam yet the argument is being made that refusal to give up the atomic bomb is the real reason for the estrangement.

Just why so great a number of American commentators should insist that this weapon be immediately given to other countries is not clearly explained, though it is being hinted that if the atomic bomb secret is given to Russia it would remove a lot of the latter's distrust of us.

There is also the contention that Russia will soon have the bomb secret anyway. But it might well be asked whether the American people would ever approve a handing over of the secret to any nation even if other nations were sure to get it some other way. The reason is that, despite the varying comments of the scientists, the atomic bomb has actually not been manufactured anywhere else but in this country and there are grave doubts as to whether any nation would be willing in the present state of postwar finances to begin to spend the huge sums needed for the development of the discovery.

The theory that Russia would immediately abandon her nationalist policies and would grant freedom of the press and freedom of speech as soon as the atomic bomb secret is divulged is not likely to be accepted in view of the fact that Russia has thus far shown herself anxious to pursue a unilateral course in world affairs and has resented the proposals of her Allies that she open up her sphere of influence to other countries and make a settlement of the pending issues related to permanent peace in Europe.

The final decision about the atomic bomb is likely to be made by Congress. Public sentiment in America would never approve the giving of any secret weapon to any foreign country, even an Ally, except possibly in the midst of war and in secrecy as well. The atomic bomb has become an open subject for debate and policy making. The member of Congress who votes to give the atomic bomb to Russia or any other country for that matter, will not make that refusal to give up the atomic bomb is the real reason for the estrangement.

But it might well be asked whether the American people would ever approve a handing over of the secret to any nation even if other nations were sure to get it some other way. The reason is that, despite the varying comments of the scientists, the atomic bomb has actually not been manufactured anywhere else but in this country and there are grave doubts as to whether any nation would be willing in the present state of postwar finances to begin to spend the huge sums needed for the development of the discovery.

The theory that Russia would immediately abandon her nationalist policies and would grant freedom of the press and freedom of speech as soon as the atomic bomb secret is divulged is not likely to be accepted in view of the fact that Russia has thus far shown herself anxious to pursue a unilateral course in world affairs and has resented the proposals of her Allies that she open up her sphere of influence to other countries and make a settlement of the pending issues related to permanent peace in Europe.

The final decision about the atomic bomb is likely to be made by Congress. Public sentiment in America would never approve the giving of any secret weapon to any foreign country, even an Ally, except possibly in the midst of war and in secrecy as well. The atomic bomb has become an open subject for debate and policy making. The member of Congress who votes to give the atomic bomb to Russia or any other country for that matter, will not make that refusal to give up the atomic bomb is the real reason for the estrangement.

Just why so great a number of American commentators should insist that this weapon be immediately given to other countries is not clearly explained, though it is being hinted that if the atomic bomb secret is given to Russia it would remove a lot of the latter's distrust of us.

There is also the contention that Russia will soon have the bomb secret anyway. But it might well be asked whether the American people would ever approve a handing over of the secret to any nation even if other nations were sure to get it some other way. The reason is that, despite the varying comments of the scientists, the atomic bomb has actually not been manufactured anywhere else but in this country and there are grave doubts as to whether any nation would be willing in the present state of postwar finances to begin to spend the huge sums needed for the development of the discovery.

Moore Says Dewey Attack by O'Dwyer Distorted Picture

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 17 (AP)—State Comptroller Frank C. Moore holds an attack on Governor Dewey's administration by William O'Dwyer, Democratic candidate for mayor of New York city, a "distorted and woefully incomplete picture" of state-city finances.

Replying to criticisms by O'Dwyer, made in a speech Monday night, that Governor Dewey and the Republican-controlled Legislature were "short-changing" the city government on state funds collected in the city, Moore declared last night that New York city would receive this year "more in shared taxes than ever before."

Moore asserted in a statement that during "the depression years" and under Democratic administrations in Albany, the state "continuously took unto itself an increasing share of the so-called shared taxes."

"Only since the Republican administration came into office in 1943 has the process been reversed," he added.

Pointing out that O'Dwyer had said the state collected $141,000,000 in taxes in the city last year and had returned less than $25,000,000, Moore asserted O'Dwyer "completely ignored the vast revenues distributed by the state to the city in aid of education, social welfare and other services."

The comptroller reported that state aid to education was increased by $7,000,000 in New York city during 1944 and 1945 and that in 1944 a utility tax of more than $13,000,000 was returned to the city.

He said these payments were made in the fiscal year ended March 31, 1945: Education aid $44,400,000; relief aid $9,100,000; old age assistance $9,300,000; aid for dependent children $4,000,000; and aid for the blind $200,000.

ZOO GETS GALAGOS

New arrivals at the London zoo, from Africa, are five gala gos, pretty little fawn-colored animals of the lemur tribe which live in trees and feed on insects and fruit. They vary from the size of a rat to that of a small cat and have large round eyes, long ears which curl up when they are not alert, and long bushy tails. In Africa they are sometimes kept as pets to destroy insects and mice.

It is estimated that civilians will have approximately 253,800,000 cases of canned vegetables, fruits, juices and similar canned foods during 1945.

Thruway Support May Be Gained By Tolls System

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 17 (AP)—A state-wide survey, by a committee of engineers was under way today to determine the feasibility of supporting New York's new Thruway System by tolls.

Plans for the express automobile thruway program already have been started.

The proposed 486-mile Thruway would start at the northern New Jersey line, extend north along the west bank of the Hudson river, pass close to Albany and Schenectady and then turn west, passing close to Utica, Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo and extending southwesterly along Lake Erie to the Pennsylvania line.

Governor Dewey, announcing the survey in a prepared statement, said it was being directed by Hal G. Sours of Columbus, O., consulting highway engineer.

Motorists are being stopped "at strategic points in our state on highways located in territories which will be served by the proposed Thruway System," Dewey said.

The survey began at 12:01 a. m. and will end at midnight.

Operators are being asked two questions, the governor continued: Where did their trip originate and where was it to end.

"In preparing their report," Dewey said, "the engineers committee will give consideration to numerous factors other than traffic count, origin and destination. They will determine percentage of state and out-of-state vehicles; make a comparison of present routes with the proposed Thruway System with particular reference to estimates of saving in travel time and distance and estimates of increased loads made possible by reduced grades on the thruways. "Included also in the report will be a tentative estimate of the volume of traffic, gross revenue and cost of operation of the Thruway System."

Statistics show that 63 per cent of all falls in the home occur on stairs.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post
(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

"I" and "Me" and Never "You"

The Is and Mees—those whose conversation is overseasoned with "I" and "Me" and "You" with never a "you" or "yours" are often the world's successful ones, rarely the world's great. Very often they are we, ourselves, who have not the least idea that we let our tongues run on glibly with sentences bristling like porcupine quills with "I" and "me" and "mine!"

It is true that many of the successful in the public's eye—particularly those whose personalities are their assets—such as actors, singers and politicians are s. accustomed to being interviewed that given a leading question, they automatically go on from there just as an actor would if given the opening line of a long speech. But as advice to all of us who would like to be popular, nothing is more important to remember than that talking about ourselves and what we have done or are going to do as much as 80 per cent of the time is the surest possible way of becoming boring!

Listing Of Widower's Name

Dear Mrs. Post: Since the death of my husband, I have been in public life. I retained the "Mrs. John Jones" because I felt that it is correct (after signing my name "Mary F. Jones"). Now, however, as I am known only as "Mary F. Jones," I am at a loss as to how to refer to myself. The newspaper women refuse to refer to any of my activities under the "Mary" option, as they insist that it is applicable to divorcees only. Other widows have asked my advice in this matter and I adhere to my early education and belief in their writing their married name in parentheses under their signature with their Christian name. Will you tell me if this is correct?

Answer: You are absolutely correct. If necessary for clarity, however, you can have your name printed in a list this way: "Mrs. John (Mary) Jones."

3rd, Third, or III

Dear Mrs. Post: I am designing simple birth announcements to send on the arrival of our baby. In the event that it is a boy, we intend to name him for his father and grandfather. This will make him the third and I am wondering whether to write John Henry, Third; John Henry, 3rd or John Henry, III.

Answer: All are equally correct—use whichever you like best. I.

personally, like 3rd. The correct way to sign your name is found in Mrs. Post's book, "Names and Signatures," obtainable for a 3-cent stamp, addressed envelope sent to Mrs. Post in care of Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. (Released By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Maroon Cross Country Team Runs in Newburgh Thursday

Gunning for their second victory of the season, a determined Kingston High School cross country team will travel to Newburgh Thursday afternoon to meet the Goldbacks in the annual fall run. Second only to the Thanksgiving grid tussle between these two schools, the cross country run attracts plenty of attention in this area. The Maroon is out to avenge the three defeats heaped upon them last year by the Billy City squad.

Although they were defeated by a powerful Mont Pleasant team at Schenectady last Wednesday, the Maroon hopes to recover from this setback and return to the win column. Last week's race saw every man cut at least one minute and a half off his time of the week before when Kingston defeated Beacon and Suffern in a three team race. Eddie Ward, who has paced the Maroon harriers in both of these races, came in only three seconds behind the Schenectady winner last week, and is expected to go all out to come out on top in the race at Newburgh.

With only three lettermen returning from last year, Coach Everett Stevens of Newburgh has had to compose his squad mostly of rookies. However, these boys have fared very well in the two meets which Newburgh has run this season. The Goldbacks have won over Monticello and Beacon by impressive scores of 18-37, and 15-40, respectively. The Beacon run resulted in a perfect score for the Newburgh harriers which makes them the favorites in Thursday's meet.

Bill Kavanaugh is expected to be the man that will give the Maroon the most trouble. Finishing the Monticello run in 11:15, one of the fastest times ever run on the Newburgh course, Kavanaugh has proven that he will be the man of the hour. Although Bernie Stahl edged him out in every meet last season, the Newburgh ace was never more than a few lengths behind, and gave Stahl some close calls.

Although Kavanaugh is the favorite to win Thursday's race, Eddie Ward is expected to give him a run for his money. The Maroon pace-setter has shown great improvement the last few weeks, and is going great guns to defeat Kavanaugh. "If Kavanaugh wins the race," Ward remarked to a reporter, "he'll have to go all the way to do it."

Coach Loryne Connick is taking 15 men to Newburgh. Eddie Ward, Frank Dolan, George Lierey, Bill Glaser, Marty Lodge, John Lawson, Tommy McGrane, Phil Brown, Paul Nelson, Dickie Van Bramer, Jim Dwyer, Ralph Thorpe, Joe Kerrig, Merl Thorpe, and Lafayette Halstein. Of these boys, Dolan, Glaser, Lierey, Lodge and Lawson have made the best showing in the first two meets, and are expected to be in there all the way in the race.

"We have a chance to beat Newburgh," the Maroon coach told the press, "for if the boys profit by the mistakes they made against Schenectady, they should make a better showing. We'll be in there right from the start, and Newburgh is going to have a battle on its hands right down to the end of the race."

BOWLING

Hudson Valley League

All three Kingston teams represented in the Hudson Valley League did well against their opponents by winning two out of three games in this week's matches.

Jones Dairy traveled to Poughkeepsie and despite the low scores bowled, won two games. Ad Jones was high for his team with 554 triple.

Van Kleek's took on Napanoch at the Kingston alleys and continued their winning ways by taking two out of three games. This gives them seven wins in nine games played to date. Robinson with a 247 single and 625 triple took the honors for Van Kleek's.

Trailways, the third Kingston team met Monticello on the local lanes and also won two games. LaTocca starred for the Trailways with a fancy 637 triple.

Next Sunday's matches and Jones Dairy playing Ellenville Waysides here in Kingston, Trailways traveling to Newburgh to meet Finnegan's Express and Van Kleek's meet Beacon in that city.

Ohio State's Warren Amling Is Outstanding Lineman of Week

New York, Oct. 17 (AP)—Warren Amling, a hard working member of Ohio State's crack forward wall, has won recognition as the outstanding lineman of the week.

The 21-year-old, 198-pound guard from Pana, Ill., drew the plaudits of newspapermen, players and coaches for his superior play in Ohio State's 12-0 conquest of Wisconsin Saturday. A junior with two years of varsity experience, Amling played 59 minutes of the game.

Leon Bramlett, Navy end, came in for a lot of attention for his Saturday's effort, but Middle boss Comdr. Oscar Engberg declared that guard Jim Carrington "was the outstanding lineman against Penn State."

Another guard, John Cloitoux, playing his first varsity game for Baylor, got more chances with the ball against Arkansas than a guard usually gets in a year. He intercepted three passes that helped Baylor upset the Razorbacks 23-13.

Other linemen who starred included: Paul Walger, Yale, Bob Sponaugle, Penn. Don Saliers, Nebraska, M. T. Burress, Mississippi State, Gene Wilson, Southern Methodist, Hubert Bechler, Texas, Jim Callahan, Southern California, and Aubrey McCall, Oklahoma.

Tackles—Ernest Knotts, Duke; George Sevitsky, Penn.; Tom Hughes, Purdue; and Jack Dieringer, Nevada.

Guards—Ed Virshup, Temple; Grant Darnell, Texas A. & M.; and Marion Herson, U.C.L.A.

Centers—Neil Zundel, Princeton; Dick Scott, Navy; Frank Sniadak, Columbia; and Harold WWatts, Michigan.

He'll Make Changes

Easton, Pa., Oct. 17 (AP)—Coach Ben Wolfson of Lafayette says injuries may force him to make a number of changes in the Maroon starting lineup for the Saturday game with Colgate at Hamilton, N. Y. And Andy Skvortez, Catawauqua, Pa., suffered a knee injury in the Princeton game and halfback Dan Poore, Lower Merion, Pa., injured his leg against the Tigers.

Hold Morning Drill

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 17 (AP)—Coach Ed McKeever held morning football practice today for returning servicemen and entering freshmen as the squad prepared for the Yale game at New Haven, October 27. McKeever looked over the newcomers for replacements and starters. Most of the regulars are busy with examinations this week.

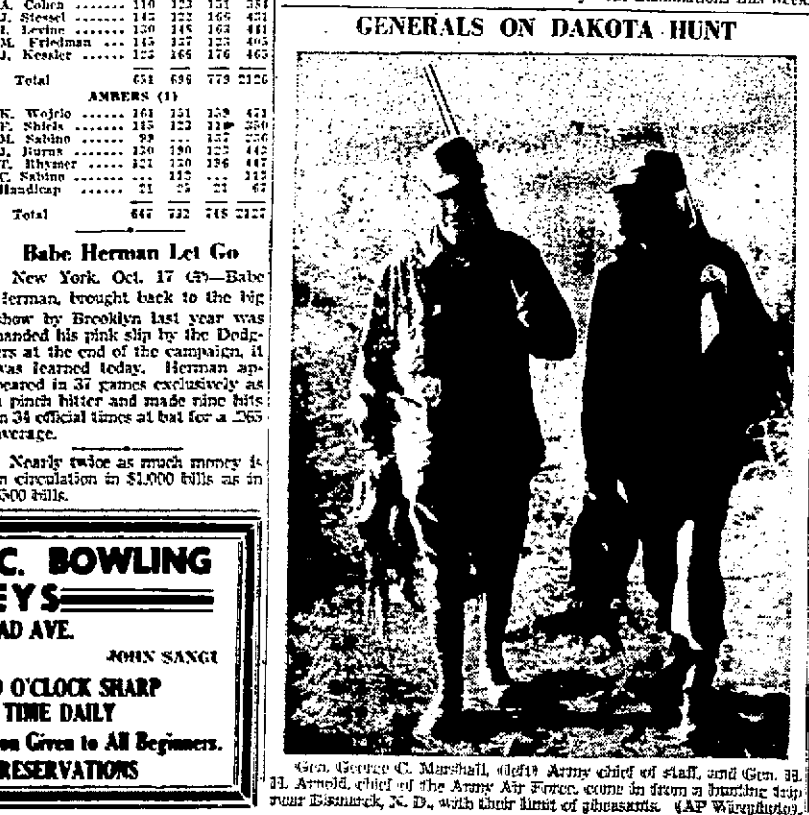

Out of Action

New York, Oct. 17 (AP)—Ward Cuff, star New York Giants halfback, will be out of action Sunday when the National Football League team makes its home debut against the Pittsburgh Steelers. X-rays disclosed yesterday the former Marquette griddle had broken a small bone in his right wrist in Sunday's tilt against the Boston Yanks.

Two Get Big Payoff On Couple of Quips

Salem, N. H., Oct. 17 (AP)—A couple of life's little quips prompted two bettors to select tickets which ultimately gave them the second biggest daily double payoff in American horse racing yesterday at Rockingham Park.

Two men who bought the third of only three tickets on the lucky combination which paid $8,614.40, declined to disclose their identities.

Martin Rush, 36, a wartime inspector at the Boston navy yard bet on "Mighty Tough" in the first race and on "Detach" in the second race because he's about to lose his job.

"It's mighty tough to be detached from a job," he quipped. Jean C. Campopiano of Lawrence, Mass., and his wife, bet on the same horses after Mrs. Campopiano peeked at the program and quipped "it'd be mighty tough if you detached me."

That was enough for Jean who plopped two bucks on the winners.

Mighty Tough returned $10.40 for a $2 win bet and Detach paid $162.60 to win.

Only payment ever to exceed yesterday's was $10,772.40 paid by Joy Bet and Merry Caroline at Washington Park on August 11, 1939.

COACH GOLFERS BANNED

Those who want to play golf at the famed Walton Heath course near London, must not travel there by motor coach. The club takes the view that it is not quite the thing to do. This the Golfers Club learned when its members decided to take their V-J Day outing at the Heath. They were quietly forbidden admission to any coming in a plebeian vehicle such as a motor coach.

Mrs. Terhune Says Husband Writes Book

New York, Oct. 17 (AP)—Mrs. Albert Payson Terhune says her dead husband talks to her often, and has written a book through her on what happens after death.

The noted author of animal stories, who died three years ago, used her as the instrument for setting down the words of the book. Mrs. Terhune said in an interview.

Terhune has been in constant communication with her since his death, declared the soft-spoken, gray-haired woman.

Mrs. Terhune said neither she nor her husband had taken an interest in spiritualism, but added that she was sure any person grieving for a loved one could communicate with him.

She said the book her husband wrote after death is entitled "Across The Line," adding that when he wrote through her, she took a pencil and held it lightly. The book will be published October 27, she declared.

PAPER CONE FORCES BUDS

Water Culture for Bulbs Indoors

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Released by Central Press Association

FEEDLES, water and a bowl. Plus a little patience is all one needs for growing bulbs in water indoors.

It's quite simple, for the bulbs to be forced are placed in bowls containing pebbles and water and placed in the dark at a temperature of 50-55 degrees.

The bulbs should be kept in the dark until the roots have become well established. As the water evaporates, add more.

Bring the bulbs into the sunlight gradually, but not on or near a radiator. Do not place them in the sunlight until they are almost ready to bloom.

Bulbs can also be forced by growing them in fiber. When using fiber one can plant the bulbs in either flower pots, bulb pans or ornamental bowls.

Use the specially prepared bulb fiber for this contains some plant food and charcoal.

The fiber must be kept moist at all times. If the fiber is allowed to dry out the bulbs will not bloom.

Wet the fiber and place a layer in the bottom of a bowl. Place the bulbs level with the rim of the bowl. Press fiber firmly around the bulbs, leaving the tops exposed. Fill the bowl with water to within one-half inch of the top.

Put the bowls away in a dark, cool cellar to promote root growth. After six or seven weeks the bulbs can be brought into the light.

The accompanying Garden-Graph shows two types of hyacinths both of which can be used for forcing. The French Roman type has several spikes, while the Dutch only has one.

When hyacinth bulbs are brought out into the light, placing a paper cone about them, as illustrated, forces the buds to grow up before blooming.

Byproduct Plants Are Popping Out Valuable Items

By WALTER MASON
Baltimore, Oct. 17 (AP)—If an assortment of vitamin pills, aspirin, fertilizer, perfume, D.D.T., and sulfur drugs popped out of the tops of coke ovens one of these fine days, anyone standing by probably would grab the aspirin and run—not walk—to the nearest psychiatrist.

But it wouldn't be funny. Actually, the components of these items, and many more, are siphoned from the tops of coke ovens at some 87 byproduct plants around the nation every day, and nobody gets excited.

While such plants really had come into their own before the war, they contributed heavily to the war effort during the conflict. And now that peace has come, they are having any difficulty switching right back to sales which do not wind up in high explosives, flameproof paint for fighting planes, or numerous other items essential to the armed services. During the war they couldn't do much talking about the stuff that went into T.M.T., electrode carbons, rubber, and the like. Now the lid is off.

Probably typical of many byproduct coke plants is that of the Bethlehem Steel Company at Sparrows Point, near Baltimore, where the principal output is coke for blast furnaces.

The $30,000,000 plant, which employs about 600 workmen, produces annually 20,400,000 gallons of coal tar, 30,000 tons of ammonium sulphate, 60,000 gallons of pyridine, 450,000 gallons of naphthalene, 6,000,000 gallons of benzol, 1,200,000 gallons of toluene, 240,000 gallons of xylene, and coal gas for the city of Baltimore, totaling 30,000 million cubic feet annually.

Used in Coke Ovens
Coals from West Virginia, Virginia and Pennsylvania, mixed together for a blend, are used in the Sparrows Point coke ovens, from which the volatile matter—approximately 30 per cent of the mixture—is driven off by heating the coal to be more than 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit for about 18 hours.

First a cooler condenses the tar and ammonia liquor from the gas. Then—under pressure—the volatile matter goes through a weak solution of sulphuric acid to obtain the ammonium sulphate. Then a water bath takes off the naphthalene, and in the final cooler, the light oil, or benzol, comes out.

From Sparrows Point these products are shipped:
Coal tar, which already has 210 separate, identified products including acids for plastics, creosote oil, pitch, and materials for drugs, pharmaceuticals, perfumes, and dyes.

Ammonium sulphate, for fertilizer and making ammonia;
Pyridine, base material for sulfa drugs, waterproofing, rubber accelerator in vulcanizing, the nicotin vitamin.

Naphthalene, formerly used only for moth balls and dyes, now is used in phthalic anhydride, which produces a paint impervious to all types of weather and which gives a high finish without baking.
Benzol, components of which go into nylon, D.D.T., styrene for buna S synthetic rubber. Cumene for high octane aviation fuel, aniline dyes, commercial solvents, tetralin for high explosive shells, and phenol for plastics.

Toluene, for T.N.T., dyes, solvents, saccharin and motor fuel;
Xylene, principally used as a solvent for lacquers and varnishes, with a minor use in explosives.
All of which adds up, steel company officials say, to defraying the cost of converting coal to coke for the blast furnaces—the chief aim in the first place.

Deutsche Organization, under which all Nazi-sponsored foreign groups were bunched. Apparently these outsiders (outlanders), thousands of whom lived in the United States, were considered as good Nazis as those who lived in Germany.

The outsiders were particularly numerous in Argentina. A team under Maj. William Brown, former chief of detectives in Portland, Ore., accomplished the job of unearthing the records. Brown's men came upon the first 200,000 cards three months ago and used them as leads in recovering the rest. The Nazis had ordered the records burned, but the orders for some reason never were carried out.

In the files of one rejected applicant living in Germany was a plea addressed to Adolf Hitler on his behalf by Fritz Kuhn, former Band leader in New York. Kuhn wrote that the rejected man had a brother in New York who was a faithful Nazi, and in view of this asked Hitler to reconsider the case. Hitler's action was not noted.

Photographs were supposed to be attached to the cards of every member, but some were missing from the files.

Teachers, Present Needs Is Topic During Meeting
At the fall conference of the Ulster Educators held Monday at Highland Central School, the full-day program centered around the theme, "The Teachers and the Present Day Needs."

Principal A. Herbert Campbell of Highland Central School in a brief address welcomed the assembled body of teachers and principals of the supervisory district of Ralph H. Johnson. William H. Maynard, president of the Highland school board, extended the community's greetings.

A business meeting conducted by President John Lake, followed, after which Supt. Ralph H. Johnson closed the morning's assembly with appropriate remarks and answers to various questions that had been presented. The remaining hour and a half was devoted to group discussions.

Following is a schedule of the subjects and the chairman (all of the Highland Central School) who took charge of each group:

Mr. Biny: senior mathematics, Miss Benesh; physical education, Mr. Burke; senior English, Miss Byrne; languages, Miss Eskildsen; senior social studies, Miss Falkenberg; library, Miss Haines; home economics, Miss MacPhail; commercial, Miss Stern; art and music, Miss Sykes; science, senior, junior, Mrs. Mearns; junior mathematics, Miss Van Wormer; junior social studies, Mrs. Thompson; junior English, Mr. Dolson; intermediate teacher, Mrs. Gaffney; primary teachers, Mrs. Lyons.

After lunch at the Highland Central School cafeteria, the afternoon session opened with music under the direction of Earl Foote of Poughkeepsie, in charge of the band, and Miss Ruth A. Duray in charge of the vocal group singing. Unfinished business of the morning was then completed.

The assembly of educators then hears the guest speaker of the day, the Rev. Osborne Budd, chaplain of Walkill Medium Security Prison on the topic, "The Prison and Youth" or subtitled the thought-provoking words "Education That Combats Delinquency."

District representatives of the Ulster Educators for the ensuing school year are: John Gaffney, Highland; Olive Aiken, Marlborough; Amy Blomquist, New Paltz; Carlton Taylor, rural; Harold E. Everett, Walkill.

Delegates to the House of Delegates of the New York State Teachers' Association are: For two years—H. Karl Ernst; alternate, Marjorie Hall; for one year—Sarah Gubick; alternate, Hazel E. Everett. Miss Gubick has also been delegated to represent Ulster educators on the retirement board.

The matter, "What Does It Mean to Be a Teacher?" will be shown at the Walkill School auditorium, featuring Albert and Costello, Friday evening, proceeds going to the freshmen class of Walkill Central School. The public is invited to patronize the event.

Memberships
Mrs. David Duflois, vice chairman of the Ulster County Home Bureau and county chairman of membership, reports that 422 memberships have been received at the Home Bureau office in contrast to the 127 received on the same date last year. Vice chairman from 12 groups met for lunch at the New York State Hotel on Monday, to report progress in the membership collections. Of the memberships received 127 are new members (about 28 per cent) increase. Vice chairman report that they will have a high percentage of renewals before the end of November. They attribute the increase in membership to two factors—the return of women to full time homemaking as the result of the termination of war contracts and a particularly vital program that is suited to the average woman's needs.

W. H. Dahl Indicted For First Degree Murder
New York, Oct. 17 (AP)—Walter H. Dahl, 29, has been indicted on a charge of first degree murder in the death of Solon Burt Harger, 39-year-old dancer, whose dismembered body was scattered in New York harbor after his death August 20.

The indictment charged that Dahl killed Harger, his roommate and member of the well known dance team Harger and Maye, with a hammer and by other means to the grand jury unknown.

Assistant District Attorney Jacob Grumet, who said Dahl confessed slaying the dancer during an argument, quoted Dahl as saying Harger made improper advances to him.

Dahl is scheduled to be arraigned in general sessions court Thursday.

Monterey Leads Third Fleet Ships To N. Y. Harbor

Fighting Enterprise Is Center of Attention With Sherman Aboard

New York, Oct. 17 (AP)—The 10,000-ton aircraft carrier Monterey steamed proudly into New York harbor through a hazy dawn today, leading a victory procession of nine other battle-hardened Third Fleet warships home from Japan.

Behind the Monterey ploughed the "fightingest carrier of them all"—the veteran Enterprise, which the Japanese claimed six times to have sunk, and which lived on to fight 18 of the Pacific's 22 major naval battles.

Aboard the Enterprise, the famed "Big E," was Vice Admiral Frederick C. Sherman.

Two blimps and a group of yellow Navy planes greeted the ships as they ended their long voyage. Harbor whistles blew and crew members, swarming over the decks, cheered as they passed the Statue of Liberty.

Two torpedo boats dashed in dizzy, joyful circles around the slow-moving craft, which are part of the vanguard of some 50 vessels to celebrate Navy Day in New York.

Other vessels in the 10-ship vanguard are the carrier Bataan, the heavy cruiser Portland, and the destroyers Foote, Young, Zellers, Aulick, Douglas H. Fox and Stetson.

After their formal entry into New York harbor, the Portland, Bataan and Stetson will leave for Navy Day celebrations in other ports.

On Navy Day, October 27, 50 warships of the victorious fleet—including the battleship Missouri, scene of the Japanese surrender—will line up in New York harbor, and the Hudson River for a review by President Truman.

More than 100 fighter planes and torpedo bombers from the Enterprise zoomed over the city in formation yesterday. They left the ship at sea and flew to a nearby airfield.

The 10 ships arriving today carry a complement of 8,500 officers and men, and are bringing back nearly 3,500 Pacific veterans, including prisoners of war.

The World Today

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
A.P. Foreign Affairs Analyst

Indonesian references to "non-violence" similar to those which have accompanied India's sporadic outbursts in her long search for liberation from western domination, serve to remind that the present situation in Java is not some new post-war manifestation, but rather a continuation of a movement which has become indigenous to southeast Asia.

Throughout Burma, Malaya and the Indies, long before the war, there was a growing restlessness and sometimes openly hostile attitude toward the British, French and Dutch administrators of a rich western Pacific area where men produced, for a few cents a day, tremendous wealth which went to swell western standards of living.

Instead of establishing educational and health centers by means of which native populations might prepare themselves for self-government, the ruling powers permitted continuation right up to World War II of a system reminiscent of the earliest days of imperial expansion. Even with the growth of some feeling of moral responsibility after World War I, little had been done to raise the position of the various Malayan peoples.

Situation Disastrous
When the new war broke, the British and French found the situation disastrous. While we had little evidence one way or another from Java at the time it is reasonable to assume that Indonesian leaders there, having formed a considerable underground liberation movement long before the war, were not too sorry, in the beginning, to see the Japanese oust their Dutch masters.

It is easily believable that the Japanese, except for the ineptness which characterized their entire war effort, might have mobilized all southeast Asia and at least parts of China and India on their side. Instead they substituted open and forceful theft for "peace cultivation," and their chance was gone.

But the fact that the Japanese misused the boat does not mean that the situation is any different. There are from 150 to 200 million people of Malayan extraction in the area. They have become an active part of a tremendous movement, stretching from Lybia to the southwest Pacific, by which Moslems, Hindus and Pacific peoples alike are determined to shake off western domination.

In dealing with the European countries the Malaysians, including the Indonesians, have before them the example of the Philippines, where in 50 years their relatives have progressed from island primitiveness to self government. The 150 million are not likely to be satisfied with anything less. Even persuading them to accept the enlightened tutelage necessary before independence may prove extremely difficult in their present state of mind.

All of which is a long way of saying that the stories coming out of Java today cannot be read as applying to an isolated situation. We have the word of Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, resident commissioner of the Philippines to the United States, writing in Collier's, that: "Essentially the problem of the Pacific represents the race problem of the world. Ignore it, sidestep it, neglect it, and the next war will be a race war."

Yenmen and storekeepers—No reduction for present.

Seven specialist ratings which have been classified as essential will remain "frozen" with their personnel of 22,650 ineligible for discharge under the point formula.

Congress Gets Timetable On Probable End of Controls

Washington, Oct. 17 (AP)—Congress received from the House Appropriations Committee today a timetable on the probable end of price controls.

The committee got the information from O.P.A. Boss Chester Bowles during testimony on an appropriation cancellation bill.

O.P.A.'s policy, Bowles said, is to "drop controls a little too early rather than too late, so long as there appears to be no likelihood of a general increase in the price level."

Bowles' timetable:
RENTS: "O.P.A. will follow a policy of 'selected decontrol.'" In some 150 smaller areas where controls were imposed because of the influx of service personnel, ceilings will be lifted during the present fiscal year, which ends next June 30.

"In other areas, there seems little likelihood for decontrol" and O.P.A. will "strengthen the program wherever possible."

FOOD: General controls continue through January 1 or winter season; sugar, canned fruits, fats, oils through June 1946; removal of controls predicted as follows: Milk, dairy products, fish, canned vegetables, by April 1; grains, legumes, field seeds, low quality meats, stew meat, processed meats, by late spring 1946.

CONSUMER GOODS: Major apparel and textiles, by April 1. SERVICES AND TRANSPORTATION: January 1 through April 1, removal of controls from laundries and dry cleaning; restaurant controls continue through spring 1946; contract-carrier services through spring 1946.

INDUSTRIALS: Controls to be lifted on basis materials and machines, by January 1; controls on automobiles and other major motor vehicles continue indefinitely; controls building materials continue through June 1946.

Billy Conn Refuses To Sign Fight Contract
New York, Oct. 17 (AP)—Billy Conn, outstanding challenger for Joe Louis' heavyweight title, today refused to sign a contract for a bout with Louis next June.

Conn and his manager, Johnny Ray, objected to a clause in the contract stipulating that Conn could not engage in tuncup bouts or exhibitions without the permission of Promoter Mike Jacobs.

Ray said that he wanted Conn to have three preliminary fights, the added that he wanted his lawyers to read the contract before signing to see if there were any other undesirable features.

Pile Driver Makes Lone Sail, Ends on Port Ewen Beach

The large pile driver, Powley No. 2, owned by Island Dock, Inc., took a lonely sail down the Hudson river last night, and ran aground near the Sun Oil Co. dock at Port Ewen, where the craft remained until floated today by the tide.

The pile driver is being used in rebuilding the dock of the A. R. Newcombe & Co. at Kingston Point, and was moored to the dock by four mooring lines as the crew quit work at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

John D. Schoonmaker of Island Dock expressed the opinion this morning that the four mooring lines that held the pile driver fast to the dock had been snapped by the swell of a passing ship. He said there were no marks on the pile driver to indicate she had been hit.

With no one aboard, the pile driver, during the night, drifted with the tide until her voyage ended as she ran on the beach.

Word of finding of the pile driver beached off Port Ewen was telephoned to the office of Island Dock, Inc., early this morning and the Dwyer work boat responded to a call for aid, and towed the pile driver back to the Newcombe plant where work was resumed on rebuilding the dock without loss of time.

Members of the Rondout Yacht Club said this morning that there was a high wind on the river between 7 and 8 o'clock last night and that the sunken float of the club, which was moored to the dock of the club, had been moved. The float, according to yacht club members, sank about six months ago.
